5 May 2014 - A Panel Discussion - Auctions Crisis:

We also have a huge different problem among the professional artists that we represent: that is the situation with the Auctions. Unfortunately, they act very irresponsibly and they just want to earn money from gross sales. They lower the first offering prices and thus hurt many artists’ market prices. They destroy all art values. No control, no inspection, they treat the situation like a market of small company shares. UPSD launched a joint-action together with the Galleries Association.
Turkey now is part of this much tormented region of the world in the near-middle-east. The famous "Arab-spring", has turned last May-June into a "Turkish Spring". The "Gezi Protests" widely publicized around the world, has almost lasted one full month between May 27 and June 25 all over Turkey. Millions of people marched protesting and the excessive use of force and violence by the government has resulted in an unfortunate bill with 7 dead persons and many blind youngsters due to tear-gas bombs.

Before it was evacuated savagely by the Istanbul police, the Gezi Park has been an unmatched centre for a communal life that reminded us of the "Commune de Paris" from history. The Gezi Park united in its land, thousands of artists, writers, actors, journalists, directors, academicians, lawyers, businessmen, political party members as well as ordinary citizens that stood up in defence of democracy and freedom. It was quite a human laboratory at the most universal level. Also it created serious multi-disciplinary platforms of solidarity and union between various fractions of socio-professional level.

Gezi Exhibition was organized to save and keep alive all the things which had happened in those days. The works of 54 Turkish artists were exhibited in UPSD Art Gallery and Pyramid Art Center. A catalogue of 184 pages was printed for the occasion of the exhibition.
